DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. The amendment filed September 14, 2005 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132(a) because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132(a) states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: the drawings shown in Figs. 5-7; the text accompanying the drawings in Figs. 5-7; and the text, presumably to be inserted into the specification, describing Figs. 5-7. The specification as originally filed does not support an adaptor as shown and described in the amendment filed. There is not mention in the specification as originally filed of a shin guard, an adaptor having a hook and loop flap, a foam rubber backing with holes stamped out for selective receipt of mass elements, or hook and loop ribbon stitched or glued to foam rubber to secure mass elements in place.

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

2. The listing of claims identifies claims 4 and 5 as withdrawn. When a claim is identified as being withdrawn, it means that the claim is no longer being considered because it is drawn to a nonelected invention. In this case, claims 4 and 5 were not withdrawn by the Examiner. Therefore, it is presumed that Applicant intends claims 4 and 5 to be cancelled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jackson, Jr. (US Pat. 3,759,510). Jackson, Jr. discloses a composite exercise garment including various components detachably connected together for use either as a total composite garment, or for use separately or in various combinations, each component of the total garment having exterior pockets which may be either filled or partially filled with weight materials, with the object that by using the proper components of the garment, properly weighted, and performing specified movements, exercises of any desired degree of difficulty are provided for any desired muscles or sets of muscles.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed September 14, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the weight of the prior art is used to create resistance to build muscles and not to reduce resistance and allow more effective muscle utilization, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., the function to reduce resistance) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Additionally, the specification as originally filed makes no mention of reducing resistance to allow for more effective muscle utilization.

Applicant also argues that the amount of weight used in altering balances is not of the same magnitude as used for weight resistance. A weight of 0.13 lbs is indicated as representative of the weight used for the invention. The prior art of Jackson, Jr. uses weight material that is of a scale fully capable of providing weight on the scale of 0.13 lbs. The weight material may comprise sawdust, sand, or metal shot.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
